

House of mission in Skillinge - we need your support

Skillinge Mission House is an evangelical church that was formed by 18 people in 1986. The church is in an area of Sweden where very few are Christian. The municipality's population is 19,000 and about 130 people are involved in a evangelical church.

Since its start, the congregation has grown and now has more than 80 members. Besides services every Sunday, we work with alpha courses , children and youth activities , small groups , etc. . In the congregation there is a great desire for further growth and we are confident of God's possibilities. We have outgrown our current church building and are now needing to expand! (Estimated costs are one million dollars.)

One of Sweden 's most famous artists is John-Erik Franzén. When the Swedish king wanted to make a portrait painting of their family , they chose John-Erik as the artist. That portrait now hangs in one of the King's castles.

2007 John-Erik attended an Alpha course in our congregation. He became a Christian and was baptized . Now John-Erik has given a lithograph with an edition of 360 copies toward the church building. The lithograph is called "Jesus is Lord " and proceeds will go to the new church.

John -Eriks word on the picture

"The subject was taken in the border between California and Arizona. These areas are desert areas. On this big billboard 's text , Jesus is Lord , and a portrait of Jesus. This led my thoughts on Jesus when he forty days tempted of the devil in the desert and rejected all his proposals. This makes me think of my own desert expeditions and then Jesus stands as a shining example to follow."
